

TetraMap Facilitator Certification

Eden Project, Cornwall

29th November – 1st December 2017

TetraMap is a simple but powerful tool for improving behaviour, communication, motivation and problem-solving in the workplace. It uses nature as a metaphor to help people understand themselves and others, to open minds and release potential.

TetraMap is inspired by and modelled on the diversity and inter-dependence of nature, and aims to make a difference to individuals, communities and the world. Its values are closely aligned to those of the Eden Project, and so we're delighted to be running a TetraMap Certification Programme at this spectacular and inspiring location. The Eden Project is an educational charity whose aim is to connect us with each other and the living world, exploring how we can work towards a better future.

“My vision for TetraMap's future is world peace, where everyone respects each other and our fragile planet.” John Brett, founder

The TetraMap certification course will equip you to deliver mindset-shifting workshops which improve communication, collaboration and motivation in the workplace. These can be incorporated into teambuilding events, leadership programmes, and many other courses as well as providing a model for personal development, strategic planning and organisational development. You'll also gain a deep understanding of the values and vision which shape and drive TetraMap, and in this particular certification programme, we'll focus on how we can use TetraMap to help create a better future for both people and the planet.

What people say about TetraMap...

"I immediately connected with the use of the four elements as a way to look at styles of leadership, management strategies, team building and motivation. For me, TetraMap brings the ancient wisdom of the elements into a powerful framework for personal and organisational development. I see TetraMap as a way to harness the power of our natural abilities, build on strengths and enable everyone in the team to reach their potential. Using the four elements as a way to understand myself and the organisation has deepened my understanding of good leadership and given me a powerful tool for the future." Angie Burke, Trust Manager, The Resurgence Trust
